

Abstract

In one aspect of the invention, a fully automated parallel microarray processing system is provided. The system is capable of high throughput processing of microarrays, from sample preparation to hybridization, without human intervention.